Multiple Moderns: Climate, Community, Creativity

March 17-22, 2026 | Los Angeles

Headed stateside for only the second time since the founding of Docomomo, the 19th International Docomomo Conference – Multiple Moderns: Climate, Community, Creativity, presents a prime opportunity to support the world's foremost efforts in Modern architectural preservation while simultaneously reinforcing the values of your firm, brand, or organization in front of hundreds of engaged industry professionals.

About Docomomo

Docomomo International is a non-profit organization dedicated to documentation and conservation of buildings, sites and neighborhoods of the Modern Movement. It was initiated in 1988 by Hubert-Jan Henket, architect and professor, and Wessel de Jonge, architect and research fellow, at the School of Architecture at the Technical University in Eindhoven, the Netherlands. Since its creation, Docomomo International has experienced a rapid growth, establishing itself as a major player not only in the realm of conservation but also in the broader field of architectural culture. Docomomo Chapters operate in 80 countries and organize as national and/or regional entities to suit local requirements. Docomomo International is the sum total of all these national and/or regional activities.

do.co.mo.mo_US[®]

Founded in 1995, Docomomo US is the United States working party of Docomomo International. Headquartered in New York City and led by a national board of directors and three full-time staff, Docomomo US represents a union of twenty-one regional chapters and five partner organizations that share its members' knowledge of and enthusiasm for modern architecture and design. Its membership (now in the thousands) consists of a diverse array of architects, preservation professionals, academics, realtors, homeowners, students, and modern enthusiasts. Docomomo US reaches more than 6,000 individuals through its curated monthly newsletter, which includes original articles and important modern news and events, and through its active social media accounts, events, and chapter activities.

“The International Docomomo Conference is the largest gathering of experts, practitioners, academics, and enthusiasts of modern architecture and design. There is something truly energizing about coming together and making connections with others from all around the globe who gather with this common purpose, while bringing their own unique perspective and expertise.”

Katie Horak, Principal, Architectural Resources Group; President, Docomomo US

About the International Docomomo Conference

The International Docomomo Conference (IDC) is a biennial event that began in Eindhoven, the Netherlands in 1990. 1 Student Workshop

Highlights

Using Los Angeles as inspiration for its theme, the 19th IDC explores the pluralistic nature of the global modern movement of the twentieth century, examining how climate, community, and creativity shaped and continues to shape the built environment.

Attendees can look forward to exciting venues, rigorous academic sessions held at the University of Southern California's School of Architecture, off-site networking opportunities and social events, and renowned architectural tours.

Expect more than 70 specific, well-researched papers on Modernism and preservation efforts to be presented by academics, practicing architects, archivists, preservationists, and historians.

Student Workshop

Advancing the 2026 International Docomomo Conference theme, the Student Workshop addresses the pressing housing shortage faced by the city of Los Angeles, with an estimated deficit of 240,000 beds. In response, the City's Adaptive Reuse Ordinance has encouraged the conversion of existing building stock – 15 years and older – into public housing.

Students will formulate and present their solutions to this problem by transforming the Hall of Records, designed by Richard Neutra and Robert Alexander, into a 200-unit market-rate housing development while preserving and extending the building's legacy as a steward of technological and architectural innovation.

Educational Sessions

Educational sessions are hosted by the University of Southern California (USC) School of Architecture's Master of Heritage Conservation Program at the University Park Campus, just south of Downtown Los Angeles. Originally founded in 1880, the campus is a mix of major periods of development and growth, from the 1920s, 1960s, and 2000s. A 1966 master plan by eminent Los Angeles architect William Pereira resulted in a new campus and dozens of buildings designed by some of the city's most important modern architects: Pereira himself, A. Quincy Jones, Edward Killingsworth, and Edward Durell Stone.

Themes include:

- Late Twentieth-Century Modernism
- Mobility and Sprawl
- Modernism in the Sun
- Community Adaptation and Repurposing
- Creativity and Collaboration

Tours

Docomomo US is known for its uniquely crafted tours, bringing you to sites not usually open to the public, with expert guides leading the way.
